Gergen,K.E. Davis,2012-12-06 This volume grew out of a discussion between the editors at the Society for Experimental Social Psychology meeting in Nashville in 1981 For many years the Society has played a leading role in encouraging rigorous and sophisticated research Yet our discussion that day was occupied with what seemed a major problem with this finely honed tradition namely it was preoccupied with accurate renderings of reality while generally insensitive to the process by which such renderings are achieved This tradition presumed that there were brute facts to be discovered about human interaction with little consideration of the social processes through which factuality is established To what degree are accounts of persons constrained by the social process of rendering as opposed to the features of those under scrutiny This concern with the social process by which persons are constructed was hardly ours alone In fact within recent years such concerns have been voiced with steadily increasing clarity across a variety of disciplines Ethno methodologists were among the first in the social sciences to puncture the taken for granted realities of life Many sociologists of science have also turned their attention to the way social organizations of scientists create the facts necessary to sustain these organizations Historians of science have entered a similar enterprise in elucidating the social economic and ideological conditions enabling certain formulations to flourish in the sciences while others are suppressed Many social anthropologists have also been intrigued by cross cultural variations in the concept of the human being

The Social Construction of Public Administration Jong S. Jun,2012-02-01 In this conceptual guided tour of contemporary public administration Jong S Jun challenges the limitations of the discipline which he argues make it inadequate for understanding today s complex human phenomena Drawing on examples and case studies from both Eastern and Western countries he emphasizes critical and interpretive perspectives as a counterforce to the instrumental technical rationality that reduces the field to structural and functionalist views of management He also emphasizes the idea of democratic social construction to transcend the field s reliance on conventional pluralist politics Jun stresses that public administrators and institutions must create opportunities for sharing and learning among organizational members and must facilitate interactive processes between public administrators and citizens so that the latter can voice their problems and opinions The future role of public administrators will be to transcend the limitations of the management and governing of modern public administration and to explore ways of constructing socially meaningful alternatives through communicative action and the participation of citizens
